A clincher: Before the colored folks broke script. up their debating society, this question was up for debate: "Am fire more useful dan iron?" love any more." Ah, well. Perhaps Mrs. Howe's charming and beautiful daughter is apt to-well, the plain fact of the matter is. other people do not grow old at eighteen just because we do at forty five. There are girls falling in love, headlong, every day, in the same old impulsive, romantic, beautiful, unquestioning fashion that used to prevail when their mothers' mothers' mothers were dimples twenty years old. When the time rates comes that men and women do not fall in love, you may just nickle-plate this poor old world and sell it for a moon. There will be po one on it when that time comes. Women don't fall in love any more? Of course not: they can't perform impossibilities, and they cannot fall in love any more than they do, unless the years are made longer. - Burlingson Hawkeye.

A man, who has been married four times, and d.vorced three times, called upon the lawyer who had piloted him through his former troubles. "See here," said he, "think you can pull me through another matrimonial contract?" "Well, I don't know. What's the matter? Want to marry some one else?" "No, sir. Each of the other times I wanted a divorce so that I could marry again. But this time I want one ob ained so that I can't marry any more. I'm satisfied you can get me one of the old style divorces. You're tip-top in that line, but this new arrangement is what I'm after now. Get me a divorce so that if I marry again I can be indicted for horse stealing, perjury, manslaughter; anything to keep me clear of the traces, and I'll gladly pay anything you charge for it." And the lawyer is trying to do it. - Cincinnati Saturday Night.

"Is a eagle stronger'en a lark?" asked a Lexington Avenue boy of his Sunday school teacher, the other day, when the Bible lesson made some reference to the great strength of the "bird of the free." "Oh, yes, much stronger," answered the sweet young teacher. "Could a eagle carry a man on its back ?" persisted the young student of natural history determinedly. "No," replied the conscientious teacher, "an eagle is not so strong as that." "Well, a lark kin, can't he !" inquired the youth, "Why certainly not," answered the astonished teacher; "what put such an idea into your head?" "Why, I heard the old man tellin' mother this morn in that the feller what used to take you to church Sunday nights had been off on a lark for two weeks," explained the boy, "an' the or over-indulgence, which leads to milery, decayold man said you knowed it, too." This firm is now in its sixth year of existence, and the rapid and permanent growth it has made is something unprecedented in the history of carriage building. Its per-manancy and growth have been accomplished, not by any special effort at "drumming" the trade, but by the excellency of the work produced, and by the low price at which this work has been sold. Another great feature of its success is in the STYLE of the work produced. It is too often the case that in low priced work the style is cory respondingly low or common in appearance. But all goods manufactured by T. T. Haydock, are made in a stylish and artistic manner, thus adding beauty to quality. This firm does not bailed the lowest grade, nor the lowest priced work in the market by any means, but is making a specialty of a medium grade full leather top bugzy at a very low price for the quality; and is offering special inducements to the trade to buy in large quantities.
